The College of Education & Human Development presents:

AAA Lecture Series Educate Anyone .. Anytime .. Anywhere ..

Supported by the Danley Professorship Endowment

About the Speaker:

Nancy Fichtman Dana, Ph.D

Dr. Dana is currently Professor of Education in the School of Teaching and Learning in the College of Education at the University of Florida. After earning her Bachelor's and Master's degrees in education from the State University of New York, she began her career as an elementary school teacher in Hannibal Central Schools, New York where she taught grades 3 through 6. Since earning her Ph.D. from Florida State University in 1991, she has been a passionate advocate for teacher inquiry in her appointments as a faculty member at both the Pennsylvania State University and the University of Florida. She has worked with numerous schools and districts across the United States and abroad to craft professional development programs of inquiry as well as conducted extensive research on the process. She has published ten books and over 60 articles in leading professional journals and edited books focused on teacher and principal professional development and practitioner inquiry. Dr. Dana has received many honors including the Association of Teacher Educator's Distinguished Research in Teacher Education Award and the National Staff Development Council (NSDC) Book of the Year Award.
